

SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1857.

THE INAUGURATION.—On Wednesday last James Buchanan took the oath of office and assumed the arduous duties of President of the United States. A sketch of his inaugural address will be found in another column. The principles there laid down, which are to govern his course as President, are such as must command themselves to all good citizens, and will ensure the happiness and prosperity of the country.

We have every confidence that the President will live up to all here laid down, and that his general policy will be the policy which will be pursued by his cabinet. The purity and policy of his character, as uniformly shown during his long connection with public affairs, afford a sufficient guarantee that he will faithfully redound all the pledges he has made on assuming the office.

The violence of party strife which has convulsed the nation for the past two years is now subsiding, and the correctness of the democratic position is becoming apparent to all candid minds. The national divisions will be reconciled—new ties will be renewed. The political storm will be succeeded by a calm, and Mr. Buchanan's term of office will be a glorious and auspicious one for the country.

President Pierce retires from office with honor. Notwithstanding the violence of political strife during his term and the fierceness with which he has been assailed, his administration has been singularly successful. The through mail from Kansas to Nebraska, leaving the people of the territories in full possession of their rights and allowing them to regulate their own affairs, is a credit to his administration. He leaves an overflowing treasury, with a more economical and efficient government than any of his predecessors.

Beautes of Fusionism.—We refer our readers to our legislative news and extracts from the State Sentinel for a fair specimen of fusionism, rule and fiction. The whole business of the Senate was delayed for three days by the republicans to compel the democrats to retract their illegal and farcical expulsion of Mr. Woods, perpetrated by them when there was no quorum present, and they were not in regular session. On several other occasions when important bills were pending, the republicans would break and break the quorum, thus delaying and retarding the business. It is doubtful if any appointment will pass, and much other important business will also be left unfinished.

Each course deserves the severest rebuke of an insatiable and outrageous community, and is another evidence of the truth of what we have before asserted—that the republicans are not competent to transact public business, and ought never to be intrusted with power.

We fervently hope this is the last time they will ever have the power to do mischief in this state.

Railroad Robbers Arrested.—An extensive gang of thieves has been discovered on the line of the Ft. Wayne & Chicago R.R., including several employees of the road, who have been in the habit of stealing goods from the cars and depots. Twenty-seven have been arrested and committed for trial in Crawford, Wyandott, Wayne, and Starke Counties, Ohio. The arrests were made by Mr. A. Parker, of the Chicago Police Agency, and Constable Hague, of Pittsburgh. It is said the head quarters of the gang is in Iowa.

A heavy mail robbery was also discovered at Coshocton, Ohio. The through mail from Pittsburgh to Chicago and St. Louis was stolen from the cars and filled of its contents. The bag and several letters and papers were found in a privy at the Coshocton station. It is probable the mail was stolen by the same gang.

Burglary.—On Tuesday night last, the provision and grocery store of H. C. Hanna was broken open and robbed. The thieves effected an entrance into the warehouse in the rear by taking out a sash, and then forcing open the door into the store. They stole 2 sacks of dried apples, some flour in sacks, 3 or 4 hams, 25 or 30 lbs of tea done up in lead packages, $5.50 in cash, and several cases of oysters. Suspicion fell on a colored boy named Eli, who had been in the employ of Mr. Hanna, and he was arrested. Two or three dollars in specie were found upon him, which he said had been given him by another boy who had taken it, but he refused to give his name; he also intimated that he had some knowledge of the robbery, though he denied being engaged. He was committed to the city jail for further examination, and broke out and went (as it was afterwards ascertained) to Toledo. A telegraphic dispatch was forwarded to that place and he was secured.

This boy, though young in years is evidently old in crime, and has probably been engaged in such transactions before. He came from Indianapolis to this place a short time ago. He can, if he will, point out who were engaged in the robbery, and it is to be hoped when he is brought back he may be kept safe until he divulges who were his associates.

A wagon was seen standing in front of the store at about 2 o'clock in the morning, which was probably used to carry off the plunder.

Removal of the Capitol of Minnesota.—The seat of government of Minnesota has been removed, by the Legislature, from St. Paul to a section of land lying between St. Peter's and Traverse des Sioux. Ten acres of the land is donated for the Capitol Square, and $20,000 is to be paid for the erection of the State buildings.

M. Sweetser, Esq. formerly of this city, owns a large interest in Traverse des Sioux, and will of course be enriched by this location of the Capitol. We are pleased to hear of his good fortune, and our citizens will all agree that it could not have fallen in better or more deserving hands.

The Inauguration of President Buchanan.—The celebration here on Wednesday by a national salute.

Clara's get a Lot Cheap.—W. G. Ewing offers a number of desirable building lots, situated near the Walash Valley Round-house, to be disposed of by lottery on Saturday evening, March 11th—tickets only $1.00 each. The drawing will positively come off at the time named, or earlier if all the tickets are sold.

This is a good chance to obtain a home at a trifling cost.

Interesting Letter from Oregon.—Salem, March 3, Oregon Territory, January 31, 1857.

Thomas Tigar, Esq., Fort Wayne.

Dear Sir—I have been receiving your paper, constantly for some time. I am glad to see the principles advocated by the Sentinel—its strong support of the Democratic cause, and repudiation of all facts and "isms" existing in your place. Harrah for old Allen County, the banner county of the state, in giving such a glorious majority in the State election in October, and also at the great contest in November for the Presidency. I had confidence in the state of Indiana that she would go for Buck and Breck—and she has done so. Oregon is a great place, and is assured that notwithstanding the great distance from the Atlantic states, the greatest interest and anxiety were manifested as to the result of the election for President. We received the news of the election of Buchanan to the Presidency about the 10th of December last, and we hailed such a glorious thing with great joy and congratulation.

The Legislature of Oregon has passed an act to take the sense of the people of this Territory relative to the formation of a constitution for a state government, and to come into the Union at the next session of Congress. The delegate will meet at the capital (Salem) of the Territory on the 4th of July, 1857, to form this Constitution, and it will then be submitted to a vote of the people for rejection or adoption. The great question will be, shall there be slavery or no slavery? This is the paramount consideration, and it will be left of course, according to the Kansas and Nebraska bill and the regular bill of Missouri compromise, to a vote of the people, but it is my candid opinion that there will be no slavery.

This question will create great agitation in this Territory as well as throughout the whole Union. I expect the head-headed republicans of the North and the infernal fanatics and disunionists of Massachusetts will be sending out a shipload of Sharp's rifles, but let them do that and they will not meet with a very friendly reception. I hope the scenes of Kansas will not be renewed in this Territory. There is a bill pending in the Legislature to prevent negroes and mulattoes from coming to or residing in Oregon. I will write you and give you all the information on anything important.

I remain yours, &c., JOHN COSTELLO.

This medicine has never been introduced by any other firm, and mental preparations, nor is it intended that its present popularity shall be sustained by any medium other than its merits and the approbation of the public.

REFERENCES.

The Medicine is now well known and appreciated and will have a steady and increasing sale. I know of no preparation that can compare with it for the particular complaints for which it is designed. I am satisfied, by the use now made of it in my own family, and by almost every day's evidence of its benefits to others, that it justly merits the warmest recommendations its best friends have given of it.

E. B. PERKINS M. D., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Having now used the remedy for four years in my practice, I rely wholly on it for the cure of almost all female diseases.

With many regards for yourself, I remain yours &c

H. F. BENNETT, M. D., Canadaigua, N. Y.

Thus far, it has given satisfaction in all cases where it has been used, and I do not hesitate to recommend it in every case, for which it is designed.—I consider it an invaluable medicine, and sufferers should know of it.

L. BROWN, M. D. Claremont, N. H.

*** I would be glad to have a further supply, as the medicine is becoming very popular, and I think its continuance will be given relief in every case of "croup" or "croup."—

T. J. ASH NEWBURN, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ind.

The Caulicle is doing good everywhere. All the physicians that have tried the medicine have been benefited but one—and that one nothing will help.

Truly yours,

WM. LAIRD HAZLETT, M. D.,
New Putlandville, Ohio.

I am persuaded, after trying it in a great many part, but it surpasses all other remedies within my knowledge for the relief of the difficulties for which it is recommended. It has cured more of my countrymen than my observation, which have resisted all other treatment.

Two claims of this medicine to the confidence of the public are strengthened by the fact of its having received the approbation and liberal patronage of many prominent members of the medical profession of the United States, some of whom have voluntarily given letters of commendation (see pamphlet), sustaining its claim, it is claimed for it as a curative agent.

Pamphlets containing such testimonials and touching the nature and symptoms of the above diseases, together with testimonials from ladies of the highest respectability, as certified by the most satisfactory authority to which their own ladies and practitioners are respectfully invited, can be had gratis at the store of

The Doctor's Revenge.

The Doctor's Revenge.

The Doctor's Reveal.

The following deeply interesting story was related by Dr. Wilson, in one of his lectures before the medical men of the University of Pennsylvania. The hero of the story is Vesalione, the most eminent of Italian surgeons:

Andrea Vesale first saw light in the city of Brussels. His father was an apothecary, attached to the service of the Princess Margaret, daughter of the Emperor Charles V. and governor of the city of Brussels.

From the period when Vesale first rendered himself conspicuous the anatomy of the human body was no imperiously understood, as scarcely a century ago it was. He was the first to merit that the terms of science should be applied to the man and confused ideas relating to the human body were first brought through the brain of Vesale to the mind to break through the transnels which ignorance and bigotry had crippled the march of science; so mounting with admirable courage and constancy the august, the terrible, and the peril, and the inseparable disposition of

to be seen whole days and nights in the cemetery, surrounded by the festering remains of human mortality, or lingering about the gibbets unrelenting with the vulture for its prey, in order to decompose a perfect skeleton from the remains of a convicted criminal, left to be devoured by the carrion bird.

It was during a sojourn at Basel, after his return from Italy, that Vesale first beheld at the house of Hans Holbein, the painter, Isabella, daughter of Hans Steenwyck, the daughter of a rich merchant of Harlem, who was destined to exercise some influence on his young life. He was scarcely

The family of Van Steenræk was a wealthy and honorable one, far superior to that of Vesel in birth and fortune; but the position the latter had acquired for himself entitled him to aspire to an alliance even more exalted. The son of the Princess Margaret's stepfather would have been rejected by the rich Ephraim burglar, had he not been the Emperor's first physician, was accepted by him as the most eligible son-in-law. The marriage solemnized, Vesel, accompanied by his

Though she loved her husband, there was much awe mingled with her affection as to this appearance of restraint over his demeanour toward him, even in the privacy of domestic life. The very nature of his profession and occupation was calculated to increase that awe and even create some degree of repugnance in a shrinking girl, which nothing but strong affection could overcome. Isabel's nature required a skillful drawing out and tender fostering. Possibly fortunately met with this facility for strangers as represented it accordingly; this led to estrangement on her part, which he attributed to dislike, at times bold and direct at length took possession of it.

Yonko's house became the resort of all that was noble and gallant in Serbia, and his fortune befriended his own scientific conversation as the attraction. At first the young wife showed her usual calm indifference to the admiration that followed wherever she was seen; but, at last, something in her manner and countenance whenever one particular person appeared or in some unexpected behaviour that there did exist finding them kind, he began to believe that he had discovered the secret for changing the blood to that which runs tranquilly through her veins. That person was Don Alcar de Sura, and as he was young, handsome, gay, and the most inconstant gallant in Seville, the suspicion of Vocale was painfully aroused. He took faint notes of the unusual emotions that agitated Isabella whenever the nobleman was in her presence.

The general conduct of both parties calculated to excite suspicion, being marked by difference. This would have misled the ill-natured husband, had he not on one occasion when his talk was turned toward Don Alvaro perceived him, in an opposite manner, fix his kindling eyes upon Isabella with an expression that told him she was not the person he took out to be mistaken, while she grew red and pale by turns, and denoted though unable to remove her agitation, down and left the room. He had taken no pains to gain his confidence: he was alone in his

At dark on the following evening he passed unperceived by the eyes in a woman's mantle, and left a note at Don Alvaro's habitation containing an embroidered glove of Isabel and these words:

"I have obtained the key to Yzabel's labours during his absence: be at the gate an hour at midnight, and you will be admitted on producing the name of 'Isabella.'"

The assassin was promptly seized by the Alger. At an hour past midnight he left the house alone, but he never returned to it. Whether he had gone to one could say; nor could any trace of him ever be discovered. It was supposed he must have used his footings and fled into the Guadalquivir, near which his house was situated, and that his body had been swept away by the waves into the ocean.

to celebrate the return of her husband. She put on her wedding dress and sent her mother an announcement that overlooked the numerous she-watched-for-his-coming. But here was one laid open on the path, by which expect of him to appear, a hand was laid on the forehead, turning around she beheld. Standing by her.

being received by the Senate from the Executive. The people of the State will hold the Executive responsible for all the evils that may arise from any deficiency in legislation. If the whole Government are blacked; if powerful and wealthy persons are able to purchase the law; if the law is not preserved by providing for the execution of the interest upon the public debt; if our best and best institutions are closed and their impositions performed without protection; if means are provided to administer the laws and if any person is able to purchase the law; if the people will say these evils you could have prevented, but did not. For two days have we been democratic pressed upon the Senate both the necessity and the necessity of proceeding in legislative business—which they are ready to do. But if the people will say these evils you could have prevented in obedience, but to all these questions a steady refusal has been given. We have to have the people of the State understand that to gratify a malicious revenge—to satisfy an admitted wrong—the Ethiopian Senate will not be deterred from doing what is right. They have assumed the responsibility. They must suffer the consequences. Editorial.

We are happy to state that once more "our friends" in Washington have taken the initiative and resumed the consideration of foreign commerce. Dr. Sage turned the key which unlocked this refractory door. The "boyle of the Senate" was informally passed over, and the bill, which has been in the hands of the committee for some time, will not be again reconsidered until all necessary legislation has been enacted and promulgated.

The Democratic Senators regarded this discussion of the matter as fair and equal. They felt that it had been proposed by them as a condition of their support of the tariff bill. At the point of honor on either side, and afforded an opportunity to lay their own case before the Senate in a thorough open way which they could not and did not desire of the legislation which the interest
